About the Editor

John W. Kindt is a Professor of Business and Legal Policy at the University of Illinois. After receiving a B.A. in business from the College of William and Mary in 1972, Professor Kindt earned several graduate degrees in law and business, specifically, J.D., 1976, and MBA, 1977, from the University of Georgia; LL.M., 1978, and SJD, 1981, from the University of Virginia.

Professor Kindt's research has resulted in more than 70 academic articles and studies in the areas of antitrust law, commercial law, and environmental law. For 20 years his research has been focused on the societal, business, and economic impacts of decriminalizing gambling activities, particularly gambling's destabilization of international financial institutions and criminal justice systems.
